A. President's report

Thank you: for Andy, manager of Seven Springs, Fort Pitt Piano company, Royal Conservatory and Wendy for spearheading and sponsoring the reception, beautiful program books thanks to Shannon (a connection of Wendy Bachman), all of the presenters for their expertise and talent, and for our conference co-chairs, Wendy and Holly.

In person events this year: Dorothy Sutton local competitions, State Showcase at Seton Hill, MTNA state performance competition, thank you to Jonathan Flowers and Evan Englestad.

We had a national prizewinner! Junior strings third place!

Keystone Concerto Competition and Chamber Music Competition and Composition Competition all very active.

Leadership summit/president's advisory council meeting: New print media resources (Diversity/Inclusion, and new studio business-related issues). New Ebony Prize and new director of Diversity. Visit ebonymusic.org for repertoire suggestions.

Upcoming events: November 12 at Kutztown for MTNA competitions. Spring competitions published online. National conference in March in Reno. Next years conference: Penn State University on June 2-4, 2023.

Thank you and acknowledgement to board members and exec board.

Financial incentives to collegiate chapter member recent graduates.

New members at conference – one-time free state membership!

Future conference theme ideas – share them!

B. Treasurer's report

Overall assets are steady. Opened two new annuities in a more secure and short-term investment.

Ed Kuhn announced the winner of the raffle drawing to support the MTNA Foundation: $250 raised! Winner is Amanda Gunderson!!! But she gave it back, and the next winner was Susan Kountz.

Ed Kuhn announced the distinguished Service award: the winner was Jonathan Flowers from Main Line MTA.

Meeting adjourned at 6:53 p.m. Motion from Susan Kountz and seconded by Lois Svard.
